
Books / Articles / ERIC Documents / Theses & Dissertations / Web / Other / In-text Citation Notes

Books

One Author / Edited / Chapter in Edited / Chapter in Edited Electronic / No Author or Editor / Third Edition / Revised Edition / Corporate Author, Fourth Edition, Author as Publisher / English Translation / Electronic Book / Several Volumes in Multi-Volume Edited

1. Book with One Author (7.02, #18, p. 203)

Reference

In-text citation
. . . which offered a theoretical backdrop for a number of innovative behavior modification approaches (Skinner, 1969).

2. Edited Book (7.02, p. 202)

Reference

In-text citation
(Bremner & Fogel, 2001)

3. Chapter in an Edited Book (#25, p. 204)

Reference

In-text citation
. . . the elucidation of the potency of infant-mother relationships, showing how later adaptations echo the quality of early interpersonal experiences (Harlow, 1958).
4. Chapter in an Edited Book, Electronic Version

Reference with DOI

In-text citation
… more attention needs to be paid to spatial intelligence (Liben, 2009).

Reference with no DOI

In-text citation
(Kang, 2003)

5. Book, No Author or Editor (6.27, p. 184)

Reference

In-text citation
. . . the number of recent graduates from art schools in France has shown that this is a trend worldwide

Reference

In-text citation
The passive voice is often “less direct, less bold, and less concise” (Strunk & White, 1979, p. 11).

Note: For the DSM-IV-TR, use (4th ed., text rev.). In text, cite the name of the association and the name of the manual in full at first mention in the text; thereafter, you may refer to the traditional DSM form (italicized), such as DSM-IV or DSM-IV-TR.

Reference

(Original work published 1965)

In-text citation
(Luria, 1965/1969)

10. Electronic Book (# 19, #20, p. 203)

Reference

In-text citation
Most doctoral program can be divided into eight relatively predictable stages (Brause, 2000).

11. Book, Several Volumes in a Multi-Volume Edited Work (#23, p. 204)

Reference

In-text citation
. . . The cognitive development of the characters in Karlin’s class illustrates the validity of this new method of testing (Wilson & Fraser, 1988-1990).
Articles

12. Journal Article with a DOI, Print or Electronic Version (# 1, p. 198)

Reference

[Note: When a DOI is provided, it is the last element in the citation. There is no period at the end of the DOI. Whether obtained in print or online, no other retrieval information is needed (Section 6.32 & 7.01 example 1).]

In- text citation
One recent study concluded that “improvisational music therapy has the potential to facilitate skills fundamental to social interaction, especially nonverbal interaction in children with autism” (Kim, Wigram, & Gold, 2008, p. 1764).

13. Journal Article with no DOI, from a Library Database (6.32 & 7.01, #3)

[Note: If no DOI has been assigned, APA 6th stipulates that you should include the URL for the journal home page instead. However, for the purpose of student papers, we suggest that you include this URL only if the article is not available as a PDF file (since a PDF will generally be identical to the print version). To find the journal home page URL, do an Internet search for the name of the journal in quotation marks. If you have trouble finding the journal home page, Ask A Librarian! (You don’t need to include database information in the citation unless the document is available only in this database, e.g., an ERIC document or a discontinued journal in JSTOR.)]

14. Online Journal or Magazine Article with no DOI (not from a Library Database) (6.32 & 7.01, #8)

[Note: If no DOI has been assigned, provide the direct URL. Notice that there are no page numbers for this example, as it is a webpage, not a PDF file.]
15. Journal Article, 8 or More Authors (6.12, p. 175; #2, p. 198)

Reference

[Note: If the work has 8 or more authors, list the first six authors followed by comma, space, an ellipsis [3 periods …], and the last author. For 1-7 authors, include all names in the reference list entry.]

In-text citation
(Gilbert et al., 1991).

[Note: Use this style (surname of the first author followed by et al. for your in-text citation for 6 or more authors. For 3 to 5 authors, cite all of the authors' surnames the first time, but then use the surname of the first author followed by et al. for any subsequent citations. See the APA 6th, Table 6.1, p. 177 for detailed examples.]

Reference

In-text citation
Johnson's study (as cited in Beatty, 1982) illustrates that . . .

17. Newspaper Article, No Author, Electronic Version (#11, p. 200)

Reference

In-text citation
The long-term effects of the high ozone levels on the giant Sequoia redwoods are unclear (“Sequoia smog,” 2012).
18. Newspaper Article, Print Version (#10, p. 200)

Reference

In-text citation
Fourth-grade math scores placed the school among the top dozen in the city (Otterman, 2010).

19. Test Review from Mental Measurements Yearbook Database

Reference

In-text citation
… the reliability of the test is considered relatively high (Cosden & Morrison, 1991).

[Note: The authors here are the authors of the review; the test authors do not appear in the test review citation. You’ll find the edition of the yearbook in the database record under the heading Yearbook (e.g., Yearbook: 12 translates to The twelfth mental measurement yearbook). To find the editors of a particular edition of the yearbook, see the list of example citations on the Buros website: http://buros.org/how-cite-reviews-buros-institutes-mental-measurements-yearbook.]

Top of Page

ERIC Documents

Print or Microfiche / ERIC Database

20. ERIC Document from Print or Microfiche

Reference

In-text citation
. . . assists in formulating strategies for translating IEP goals and objectives into classroom activities (Education Development Center, 1998).
21. ERIC Document from ERIC Database: Book or Monograph (#22, p. 204)

22. ERIC Document from ERIC Database: Informally Published or Self-archived Work (#62, p. 212)

Theses & Dissertations

23. Unpublished Master's Thesis or Doctoral Dissertation, Print (7.05. p. 207)

24. Master's Thesis or Doctoral Dissertation, from ProQuest Dissertations and Theses Database (#40, p. 208)

25. Doctoral Dissertation, from the Scholarship @ Lesley Collection (Institutional Database) (#41, p. 208)

Top of Page

Websites

Entire Website / Webpage with Personal Author / Webpage Article with No Author / Webpage Published by Organization / Report Published by an Organization / Lesson Plan / Government Document / Blog Post

[Note: According to APA, many webpage titles will not be italicized in the reference list. This is because most webpages are part of a greater whole (the website), just as a book chapter is part of a greater whole (the book). In the case of a webpage, however, you do not include the title of the greater whole (the website) in your reference, since it is not necessary for retrieval (in contrast to a book for a book chapter). (See ex. 27-29, 31, & 33.) On the other hand, if you are citing a stand-alone web document, such as a report or a government document, you do italicize the title (see ex. 30 and 32 below).]

26. Entire Website

If you are citing an entire website and not a particular document, fact, or idea, you can simply include the URL in parentheses in your text. No entry in the Reference List is needed.

Example:

The APA Style website (http://www.apastyle.org/) has a variety of useful resources.

27. Webpage with Personal Author, No Date

28. Webpage Article with No Author

Reference

In-text citation

Others think the increase is due to greater awareness of mental health services (“Students report,” 2010).
29. Webpage Published by an Organization

Reference

In-text citation
… makes it more difficult to quit (American Cancer Society, 2012).

30. Report Published on the Web by an Organization

Reference
http://www2.ohchr.org/english/issues/indigenous/docs/guidelines.pdf

In-text citation
…must follow basic human rights principles (United Nations Development Group, 2008).

31. Lesson Plan on the Web

http://rwtverio.ncte.org/lessons/lesson_view6bfb.html

32. Government Document on the Web

33. Blog Post (#76, p. 215)

Salman, A. (2010, April 8). Women’s rights in Pakistan [Blog post]. Retrieved from

Top of Page
Other

34. Video or DVD (#49, p. 209)

35. Video from a Library Database

36. Video Blog Post (e.g., YouTube Video) (#77, p. 215)

37. Television Episode from the Web (#51, p. 210)

38. Music Recording, Whole Tape, LP, or CD (#52, p. 210)

40. Artistic Work

41. Artistic Work from the Web

42. Item Distributed Via Course Pack

For articles or book chapters reproduced in a course pack but originally published in a book, journal, or newspaper, APA recommends citing the original source, ignoring its distribution via course pack.

43. Interviews and Other Personal Communications

The APA considers all personal communications, including interviews, as non-recoverable data, and therefore recommends that you not include these citations in your reference list. Instead, you should simply include an acknowledgement in the text of your paper, in the form of a parenthetical statement. Provide the initials as well as the surname of the person and as exact a date as possible.

(D. Johnson, personal communication, February 14, 2010)

D. Johnson (personal communication, February 14, 2010) provided an interesting description…

44. Class Lectures

Only include class lectures in your reference list if they are formal lectures that recur each year for which your professor likely has extensive notes. For more informal class discussions use the Personal Communication format above.

45. Quote from Another Source (Secondary Source) (6.17, p. 178)

If you will be using information from a source that is attributed to a separate author than the source you actually read, you need to include the source you read in your reference list and mention the author that work discusses in the text of your paper. In the example below, you would actually have the article by Beatty in hand but want to refer to the study by Johnson (unread by you) that Beatty mentioned.
Reference

In-text citation
Johnson's study (as cited in Beatty, 1982) illustrates that . . .

Some Notes on In-text Citations

Format of in-text citations
Your in-text citation should include the author’s (or authors’) last name and the publication date (and a page number if you are quoting a specific passage). If you refer to the author in your running text, you do not repeat the author’s name in your parenthetical citation:

The comma is … (Strunk & White, 1979)

Strunk & White (1979) stress that the comma is . . .

Page numbers for in-text citations
When you are directly quoting a source, always include a page number in your in-text citation, if available. Although a page number is not required when you are paraphrasing, APA encourages you to include one when it would help a reader find a specific passage you are citing. (See APA 6th, 6.04, p. 171.) If no page numbers are available, use paragraph numbers (with the abbreviation para.), if they are visible. If neither page numbers nor paragraph numbers are provided, use headings instead (in quotation marks), if available. (See APA 6th, 6.05, p 172.)